GENERAL PRINCIPLES FOR THE MANITOBA STATISTICAL REVIEW

The following are the general principles under which this publication operates.

1. General Statistics Only

Only statistics of general public interest are included in the Review. Specific sectoral statistics should be found in various Manitoba departmental or Statistics Canada publications. The appearance of data in the Review does not necessarily reflect acceptance of the data by the Manitoba Bureau of Statistics. On request, the Bureau will provide a statement regarding the reliability of data appearing in the Review.

2. Comprehensive and Timely

The Review contains sections on demographic and labour force data; economic and price statistics, financial and taxation statistics; sectoral statistics (agriculture, forestry, fishing and trapping, manufacturing, mineral, energy, construction and housing, and retail trade); social statistics (health and hospital, education, corrections, and welfare); and governmental statistics. It is published three months after the end of the quarter for which data is available.

3. Special papers on Current Economic and Statistical Issues

The Manitoba Statistical Review contains special papers each quarter dealing with current economic issues or statistical developments. The papers are general in nature and are written for layperson comprehension. The views expressed by the author(s) of the special articles published in the Manitoba Statistical Review are their own and do not necessarily reflect those of the Department of Industry, Trade and Tourism, or the Government of Manitoba.

4. Manitoba Bureau of Statistics Data Integrated into the Review

The Manitoba Bureau of Statistics current surveys have been integrated into the Review, e.g., prices survey of food. In addition, Tables 19, 20 and 21 provide summary information on the provincial economy from the Manitoba Provincial Economic Accounts.

SPECIAL SECTION

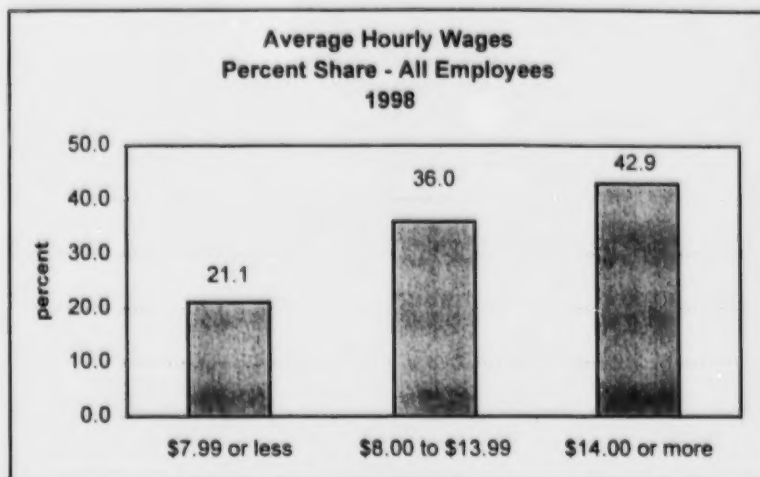

Manitoba Wage Earners: Employment and Wage Changes 1997 and 1998

- Statistics Canada reports that an estimated 13,700 employees (up 3.1%) were added to payrolls in Manitoba during 1998, more than offsetting a reported decline of 5,800 (down 5.8%) in the self-employed category. The overall employment gain for the year was 7,800 persons (up 1.5%).
- Manitoba employees earned an average wage of $14.08 hourly, up 2.0% from 1997. That wage gain was mainly driven by an increase in the number of employees making $8.00 per hour or more, and by a decrease in the number of employees earning less than $8.00 per hour.
- The increase in the number of employees was pretty much evenly split between those in the $8.00 to $13.99 per hour range (up 8,300 or 5.4%) and those making $14.00 per hour or more (up 8,200 or 4.4%).
- Statistics Canada reported that 2,700 fewer Manitoba employees earned $8.00 per hour or less in 1998, down 2.8%.
- There was an even sharper decrease in the number of Manitobans earning the current minimum wage of $6.00 per hour. An estimated 43,100 persons fell into this category in 1998, 4,100 (8.7%) less than in 1997.
- The goods-producing sector added 5,000 employees to the payroll in 1998, with 3,600 of those falling into the $14.00 per hour category or more. Employee growth in this sector was roughly divided between manufacturing jobs and jobs in utilities and construction.
- Last year saw a sharp drop in the number of employees in primary industries. Agriculture, forestry, mining and oil and gas had 2,200 fewer employees in 1998 than in 1997.
- The service-producing sector saw an increase of 8,600 employees in 1998, and now accounts for 77.8% of all Manitoba employees. The average wage in this sector was $13.99 hourly in 1998.
- Only 10.5% of service sector employees make the current minimum wage of $6.00 per hour. Most are found in the retail trade and accommodation and food service sectors. More than 75% of all service sector workers made $8.00 or more hourly last year and 41.6% made $14.00 per hour or more.

Manitoba Employees and Average Wages Grow in 1998

Statistics Canada has reported that the average hourly wage for Manitoba employees in 1998 was $14.08, a 2.0% increase over 1997. There were 13,700 more employees in 1998 than there were in 1997. There were 5,800 fewer self-employed Manitobans in 1998 than in 1997. As a result, total employment in 1998 increased by 7,800 people. The wage increase of 2.0% was fueled mainly by the growth in the number of employees earning $8.00 or more per hour coupled with the decrease in the number of employees earning less than $8.00 per hour. Employees earning $8.00 to $13.99 per hour grew by 8,300 (up 5.4%) and those earning $14.00 or more per hour increased by 8,200 (up 4.4%). There were 2,700 fewer employees (down 2.8%) earning less than $8.00 per hour. In 1998, employees earning more than $14.00 per hour represented 42.9% of the total, 36.0% earned $8.00 to $13.00 per hour, while 21.1% of the total earned less than $8.00 per hour.

Fewer Manitobans Earning Minimum Wage

As of April 1, 1999, the current minimum wage is $6.00 per hour. In 1998, employees making the new minimum wage represented 9.5% of all employees. This compares to 3.4% under the previous minimum wage of $5.40 per hour. The number of employees earning $6.00 or less per hour in 1998 was 43,100, which was 4,100 or 8.7% less than in 1997. This decrease, along with a drop of 500 Manitobans earning between $6.01 and $6.99 and an increase of 1,900 earning $7.00 to $7.99 per hour, led to the net loss of 2,700 people earning under $8.00 per hour. Only the manufacturing and finance, insurance, real estate and leasing sectors displayed slight increases of employees earning minimum wage. The largest decrease in minimum wage jobs was in the accommodation, food and other services industries, with 1,300 fewer employees earning $6.00 or less in 1998 compared to 1997. Overall, the service-producing industries had 3,500 fewer jobs earning $6.00 or less per hour and 4,400 more jobs that pay hourly wages of $14.00 and above.

Growth in Higher Paying Jobs

In addition to fewer minimum wage jobs, Manitoba gained 16,500 jobs that paid $8.00 or more per hour in 1998, this represents an annual increase of 3.8%. On average in 1998, 162,800 employees or 36.0% of the total earned between $8.00 and $13.99 per hour, while 194,100 or 42.9% of the total earned $14.00 or more per hour. The increase of 16,500 jobs was almost equally split between the two wage categories, 8,300 more employees earned from $8.00 to $13.99 per hour and an additional 8,200 earned $14.00 or more per hour in 1998 than in 1997. The increase in employees earning between $8.00 and $13.99 per hour was supported mainly by the gain in the service-producing sector, while the growth in jobs paying $14.00 or more was split somewhat evenly between the goods-producing and service-producing industries. The majority of job growth in goods-producing industries was due to the increase of employees earning $14.00 or more per hour.
